Welcome to our first newsletter for email subscribers! A few things to know:

- This is our first.....still deciding if or when there will be more. Testing the waters.
- We will not spam your email. We won't subject you to our own pet peeves.
- We may share special offers to email subscribers in the future.....stay tuned!

What We're Up To

Thank you to longtime, faithful R2R customers for your encouragement and continued support. While there have been some slight changes here and there, we're still your favorite neighborhood small town business, with the same knowledgeable crew ready to help.

AND

Welcome to our new customers! We've been working to improve our visibility with social media and appreciate the feedback when new faces stop in and say hello.  Please interact with our pages and share with your friends if you're so inclined. This will help us to get the word out!

What's new?

Now offering e-Gift Cards! With the switch to Square, we can now offer e-Gift Cards as well as physical gift cards that can be reloaded online. Just click the swirling ocean on our webpage to order.

We have increased our offerings of UNS tanks and equipment and are bringing supplies and additional plants for planted tanks, paludariums, and vivariums. Coming soon- more plants and (bug) friends to join them, such as isopods and springtails.

We now carry Aquarium Co-op merch that has been in high demand, slowly adding to the menu of items available. Let us know what you're looking for!

Lastly, we have incorporated our service business into the retail shop. Whether you need a one-time visit for consultation, vacation coverage, or are interested in regular maintenance, just stop in and ask! We can gather some information and offer a quote.

Help Pickle find her forever home!

Lonely Eel Seeks Reel Love

— From the Briny Heart of Pickle the Dark Moray —

Hi, I'm Pickle, a sensational, slippery, and somewhat misunderstood Dark Moray Eel in the prime of my wiggle. Currently 3.5 feet of pure underwater elegance (with room to grow), I'm searching for a spacious home and a partner who gets me—emotionally and aquatically.

About Me:

- Species: Gymnothorax afer (but friends call me Pickle)
- Body Type: Long, mysterious, and gloriously gooey
- Color: Midnight chic with just a hint of menace
- Habitat: Your 180+ gallon saltwater tank (and I will judge if it's not decorated tastefully)
- Diet: Gourmet mackerel, premium-grade sashimi, and ethically sourced crustaceans
- Hobbies: Lurking in rockwork, surprise lunges, and chewing slowly while making awkward eye contact

You:

- A human with deep pockets and deeper patience
- Willing to maintain optimal water quality, zero drama, and regular seafood deliveries
- Unafraid of commitment, slime, or the occasional love nip
- Fluent in eel body language (or at least willing to learn)

Bonus points if you own a UV sterilizer, whisper sweet nothings through the glass, and never, ever try to pet me.

Must Love Slime

Slide into my DMs with a tank tour, a water quality report, and a written statement of intent. Let's make a splash—or at least terrify the tangs together.

Pickle: She's not just any eel—she's the dark, dangerous noodle of your dreams.

In all seriousness, we are looking for the perfect home for

Pickle as she has outgrown our space. "She" would be an excellent centerpiece for a large display aquarium (anyone from the zoo reading this?)
